By checking the boxes (<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>), I acknowledge that the following requirements must be fulfilled before exportation of colonies for temporary residence to New Brunswick:
Only colonies, nucs, queens or equipment from inspected and approved bee yards will be exported to New Brunswick.				<input type="checkbox"/>
One hive per pallet and every hive not on a pallet must be identified with clearly visible identification label with the beekeeper's name, company name, or beekeeper's registration number and the bee yard (apiary number) from the province of origin. It is the beekeeper's responsibility to identify the hives.				<input type="checkbox"/>
Beekeepers in Small Hive Beetle Region: A small hive beetle trap, with vegetable or mineral oil, or an unfolded cloth (sold for small hive beetle monitoring) must be placed on the top bars in 100% of the colonies. Traps: Traps must be placed at least 7 days prior to inspection and can be removed for transportation, or; Cloths: Cloths must be placed 5 to 10 days prior to inspection and must remain in hives exported to New Brunswick for a possible inspection in New Brunswick.				<input type="checkbox"/>
Beekeepers in Small Hive Beetle Region: The colonies must be covered with a mesh to prevent honey bees and small hive beetles from escaping during transit. Alternatively, the colonies may be sent in a refrigerated truck.				<input type="checkbox"/>
