1 Background

In August 2008, following extensive consultation, a revised model for French second-language learning in New Brunswick was announced. It was decided that beginning in September 2008, all students would commence their public education journey in English from kindergarten through to the end of grade 2.

During the consultation process, concerns regarding the lack of access to French language at the K-3 level were voiced. It was decided, therefore, to provide an early introduction to French language and culture at these grades as a means to develop students’ interest in learning a second language.

Quality Learning in French Second Language in New Brunswick, by Rehorick et al. (2006), suggests the Department of Education “develop a promotion and marketing plan for French as a second language.” This includes encouraging the notion that “there are many reasons to learn French” and that “learning French is fun.” Similarly, Canadian Parents for French (2004) state the need for students to be “positively motivated in French language learning.” The intent of the activities is to develop within students a positive attitude toward learning a second language.

A committee was formed at the Department of Education, including French Second Language and Literacy Learning Specialists, classroom teachers, an art specialist, music specialist and a coordinator for the promotion of language and culture. The committee has designed learning opportunities to address the overall goal of the activities: engendering enthusiasm for learning French as a second language.

1.1 Culture and Language Awareness in the Literature

Culture may be defined as “the set of cognitions, emotions, and behaviour that uniquely identifies each of us as individuals, reflects where we live and the web of social relations through which we have lived our lives.” (Handwerker, 2002)

These activities involve several opportunities for students to be exposed to French language and culture. French folk songs, French dances, French children’s books, Francophone guest speakers and the opportunity to interact with Francophone peers have been included in this document.

A language awareness project (Young & Helot, 2003) with similar activities has proven successful. Young and Helot noted that having primary children make comparisons between their own and others’ cultures was beneficial to learning and appreciating the perspective of others. In our bilingual province, this encouragement of respect for other cultures is imperative to building positive relationships and understanding.
Similar positive effects are also noted in Met (2004) and Malcolm (2006). Met suggests “best practices in language education address one additional programmatic feature - cultural interaction. Such interaction provides students with opportunities to gain cultural understanding and skills in knowing how and what to say to whom. This exposure is best achieved through direct contact with native speakers, either face-to-face or through technology.” (Pg.3)

Malcolm (2006) discusses improved cultural awareness through interactions that began with a simple pen pal program. The initial contact led to video exchanges, internet connections, and a student exchange. Similar activities for students are outlined in this document. Opportunities that support on-line twinning of Anglophone and Francophone classes provides further opportunities to enrich students’ understanding of cultures other than their own.

1.2 Implementation in New Brunswick Classrooms

The learning experiences described in this document are for implementation in Grade 3, beginning September 2010. Suggestions have been considered from the Minister’s Advisory Committee on French Second Language and the Provincial Curriculum Advisory Committee. In June 2010, representatives from each school district will receive training on the materials and integration of these experiences.

Many of the activities are intended to be embedded in classroom rituals, with the homeroom teacher and school specialists facilitating learning opportunities within daily activities. These activities are not intended to be viewed as stand alone “events” but rather a natural exposure to another language within the context of their English classrooms.

Teachers are not expected to complete all activities in the document. The variety of activities provided ensures many choices for relevant learning based on student interests and learning needs. Within each of the activities, there is an overview of the focus area and suggested facilitator for the activity. New Brunswick education curriculum outcomes are defined, followed by an explicit procedure for how to facilitate the activity with the students. Required materials are also included in the overview.

To support our ongoing journey to increased access to electronic resources, several hyperlinks have been included in this document. These links direct educators to key resources such as audio or video links, recommended websites, and existing documents that may further support educators’ implementation of the learning experiences.

A dedicated portal site
https://portal.nbed.nb.ca/tr/lr/eflr/Pages/,DanaInfo=portal.nbed.nb.ca,SSL+default.aspx has been designed for teachers to easily access core activity resources and additional links for extending activities. An area for teachers to share ideas and materials offers educators further resources to access.
1.3 The Teacher’s Role

Within a one week period, it is expected that a minimum of thirty minutes per week highlight the activities provided. These minutes may be cumulative or represent an extended attention to one of the learning experiences. Many teachers will exceed the minimum as these activities address current Grade 3 curricular outcomes and support existing teaching plans.

For this grade level, we have included a particular focus on learning about French culture through social studies and language arts. The learning experiences in this area may span over several sessions and involve students in cumulative skill building while learning about French culture. This extended focus may require additional time beyond the 30 minutes per week of exposure suggested. This additional time may be accessed during the teacher’s allocated social studies or language arts time as the learning experiences directly address outcomes in these areas.

Many of the suggested activities involve students creating items to demonstrate their response to what they are learning. The teacher may choose one area in the classroom as a site to display student responses. Similarly, schools may also encourage this exposure by having a display in the main halls of the building.
2 Overview of the Support Document

The following learning experiences are grouped according to overall curricular areas to facilitate integration into the daily planning and activities in the classroom. In the resource kit provided to teachers, a section is designated for each of the subject areas, as well as necessary materials to facilitate the activities.

A detailed explanation is included for each learning experience, providing links to curricular areas. Many of the activities will extend beyond one session. Ideally, the activities are built into the daily routines of the class and are not meant to be one time occurrences.

2.1 Music

The CD “French Folk Songs Children Love” and the supporting booklet are provided. The lyrics are in French, but include directions, lyrics and activities in English. Learning experiences to support French songs Bonhomme and L’Aviron are included. An additional learning experience highlights La premiere peche from the CD Ensemble. CDs for listening centres or transition times are ABC et 1,2,3 (upbeat, interactive music that highlights beginning vocabulary) and Art Richard chante avec ses amis which includes the voices of young Francophone students.

2.2 Physical Education

Dansez en Francais provides direction for leading the French dances: XXXX and XXXXX. The explanatory text is in English and an explanation for each of the dances is provided in the supporting documents. A demonstration video of these dances is provided on the teacher portal site.

2.3 Social Studies

- Cultural Celebrations: Children design their own cultural fair at the classroom or school level. The community is invited to attend a celebration of a variety of elements of French culture including food, dance, music, and dress. The text Taking Action guides students and teachers as they plan this exciting event.

- Follow that Map!: Students explore various cultural sites around New Brunswick while learning beginning mapping skills. Copies of the book Follow that Map are provided so that teachers may follow the mini-lessons provided to engage their students in a virtual voyage around the province.

- Take Action on Haiti: Active citizenship is a critical element in the social studies curriculum. In this learning experience, children learn about another French speaking nation, Haiti. Students are invited to become engaged in learning more about how they can make a difference in Haiti, using the book Take Action.
• Interest Centre: The teacher places items in an area that can be easily accessed by students. Once simple poetry and children’s books have been introduced, they may be placed in the interest centre area for those students who wish to extend their exposure to the materials. A CD player with headphones, dedicated laptop, and pictures/artifacts from French culture visitors may also enhance the opportunity for learning in the classroom.

• Community Partners: A letter is provided that invites parents/guardians to suggest individuals of French heritage to visit the school. Similarly, community schools coordinators will work to identify guest speakers and resources regarding French culture.

• New Brunswick Anglophone districts have a French monitor working within their schools. Although availability may be limited, these individuals are Francophone and offer a viable opportunity to enhance the awareness of language and culture. These individuals may offer to do a read aloud in French and discuss their experiences and customs.

2.4 English Language Arts: Language Awareness

There are several opportunities to integrate English Language Arts outcomes in the activities provided.

• Buddy Readers: Weekly pairing of kindergarten students with French immersion or Intensive French students provide a consistent opportunity for the younger student to hear French language from their peers. The older students may read a simple French text to the kindergarten student as provided in the teacher resource kit.

• Introducing French poems to students as a shared reading opportunity: Simple poems with an accompanying CD are provided and once introduced by the teacher, may be posted in the classroom and added to the student listening centre.

• Introducing French children’s books: A series of books with audio support will offer students the opportunity to hear the French language as they follow along in the text. The text is clearly supported through vivid illustrations on each page. A guideline is included for how teachers may introduce each text before it becomes part of the student listening centre. Extension activities support cross-curricular outcomes in a variety of areas.

2.5 Technology

Students from kindergarten English classrooms may be twinned with Francophone kindergarten classes to exchange simple photostories. A description of the initial activity: Hello Friends/Bonjour Mes Amis is included in this document. Teachers interested in this exchange will find contact information in this section. The portal has an embedded link for uploading these videos so that other schools may have access to these as well.

2.6 Enrichment

Teachers may lead further study in French culture through an investigation of language, customs, traditional food, etc. Suggested activities are outlined and a Powerpoint presentation explaining the process is available on the portal site.

2.7 Resources Directory

Suggested websites are listed, including interactive educational sites, virtual experiences of cultural landmarks and related organizations. Of particular interest to teachers is a highly recommended daily children’s program in French. Mini TFO (http://www.tfo.org/jeux/mini/) is an engaging and interactive program with French language supported through props and gestures.

The province has also introduced a French Language and Culture website for families http://www.gnb.ca/0000/fsl/Schools-e.asp. A What’s Happening in Schools? section highlights cultural learning experiences occurring in New Brunswick classrooms.

Curriculum Outcome(s): Music

3.1.2 explore a range of materials and techniques to create, make and present music.
3.4.2 explore vocal and instrumental music of various cultures.

We need to add a language arts outcome

Suggested Activity (Music):

Introduce this song by telling the students this is a traditional French cultural song which you may have already heard. As you listen to the song can you hear words that would describe musical instruments.

Which of these instruments are percussion, string and wind?

Play the song and have the children sing the echo version.

Have the children sing again and mime the playing of the instruments.

Ask the children who they think Bonhomme is, what they think Bonhomme’s favorite instrument is and what they think s/he looks like when playing her/his favorite instrument.

Students may have a “Bonhomme Day” in which they dress up how they envision Bonhomme to look like and bring, make, or borrow an instrument of choice. All students, keeping the rhythm of the song, can play and sing along with the CD version, practicing teamwork, unity, and gaining an appreciation of the harmony that can arise with and from diversity.

Extension: Visit the Carnaval de Quebec website, where Bonhomme is celebrated:

There is also a video of Bonhomme in action at http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=573ZDZv66c8

3.2 Understanding and connecting context of time, place and community: Drama

4. Students will be expected to respect the contributions to the arts of individuals and cultural groups in local and global context and value the arts as a record of human experience and expression.

Students will be expected to:
- Learn about the history of French Canada through song.
- Learn about the fur trade.
SUGGESTED ACTIVITIES:
“C’est l’aviron” in “French Songs Children Love” P. 17. To understand the Early French Canadian fur trade.

Prior to playing the song C’est l’aviron (French Songs Children Love – page 19) encourage the children to listen to the genre in the song to compare and contrast the music they currently listen to.

Students will listen to the song and share their response – verbally, in writing, and/or through an illustration.

The words to the song provided below can be placed on an overhead. Play the song and have the children sing along. Once the children are comfortable with the words invite them to sing with the accompaniment version.

Read the following excerpts from the textbook NEW BRUNSWICK - ITS HISTORY AND ITS PEOPLE, by William and Carole Spray to provide background information on the fur trade related to this song

(page 20) “News about the wealth of furs spread quickly in Europe. More and more people began to cross the Atlantic. Many French and, later, many English made the trip.”

(page 26) “The first real efforts to start settlements in Canada were not made until the seventeenth century. They were made for a number of reasons. One reason was hats! Fur hats had suddenly become popular in Europe. Many merchants in France knew they could make a lot of money by supplying the furs needed to make the hats.”

(page 33) “Fur traders also came to Acadia. These merchants set up trading posts so they could make money from the fur trade. In one year, a French trader could ship home to France as many as three thousand beaver, moose, and otter skins. The trading posts they built helped to keep settlements in Acadia growing.”

Discussion on the fur trade and how people traveled in the past is encouraged. Students can research then compare and contrast modes of transportation and the fur industry of the past with transportation and the fur industry of today.

Enrichment opportunity – students may wish to investigate the issues related to the use of various types of fur today and the controversy surrounding it.

Children could present their interpretation of the song and music in small groups through drama, skits, dance, and/or art.

Suggested activities:

Prior to introducing Hermenegilde Chiasson’s to the students, ask them if they can share with you the name of the current Lieutenant-Governor of NB (review from Social Studies discussions OR use this as an opportunity to introduce the title of “Lieutenant- Governor).

In small groups, have the students do a “THINK, PAIR, and SHARE” then ask them to prepare individual or small group KWL charts around the following questions:

“THINK” - What are the roles and responsibilities of the Lieutenant-Governor of a province? What virtues and assets do you think a Lieutenant-Governor should have?

“PAIR” up with a classmate, and “SHARE” your thoughts with each other. Record what you share as the “K” for the KWL chart which we will be completing as a class.

“SHARE” - The teacher will prepare a whole class (summative) KWL chart, based on feedback/responses from the students.

Introduce the Role of the Lieutenant-Governor of NB
http://web.archive.org/web/20071025023217/www.gnb.ca/lg/hist-e.asp along with the Biography of Hermenigilde Chiasson from when he was Lieutenant-Governor of NB

Teachers will read to the class the Message from Hermenigilde Chiasson written when he was Lieutenant-Governor of NB

Update class KWL chart. (It is anticipated that the foregoing activities combined with the KWL activity will help students to realize that a Lieutenant-Governor is chosen for his/her ability to respectfully represent the culture and people of their province.

Inform students that Hermenigilde Chiasson was the first Acadian Lieutenant Governor and was chosen by the committee who designed Learning Experiences to Introduce French Language and Culture because of his Acadian background, his multiple artistic skills and products, but most importantly for his ability to articulate the need to honour our own past while respecting that of others, a sentiment he eloquently conveyed in A Message from the Lieutenant-Governor of New Brunswick (referenced above). Emphasis could be placed on these empowering sentiments from Hermenegilde Chiasson:
“To my mind, culture constitutes a vital element. It contains both the history of the world and our own personal history. We are its heirs and its continuation. However, culture refers not just to the production of works of art but also to the way in which we live together, the way in which we express ourselves, the way in which we leave a record for the future generations to whom we are accountable.”

Without informing the students who painted the following picture, bring it up on the SmartBoard or Portal (depending on what technology resources are available and how it will be best viewed).

!Picture

Ask the students to look at it silently/peacefully for several minutes then write their thoughts/responses to the following questions on the Artistic Expressions activity sheet provided at the end of this document. Allow students to work on a quiet activity (silent read, draw, other, for a few moments until everyone has had a chance to respond.)

NOTE: Students who may have difficulty recording their responses in writing may draw their response under each question. The questions on the sheet are:

1) What do you think of this picture? Why?
2) What do you think the artist was trying to tell us? Why?
3) What comes to your mind when you see this picture?
4) What do you think prompted the artist to produce this piece?
5) What medium do you think was used to produce this piece?
6) What are some remaining thoughts or questions you have after viewing this piece?

Next, students in small groups can share their interpretations of Hermenigilde’s Art Work by reading their responses to each other.

The teacher can then use the website provided above to share the Hermenigilde’s rational of why he painted this piece. Allow for some follow-up discussion afterwards.
ROLAND GAUVIN
Acadian singer/songwriter

Roland Gauvin

It is impossible to overestimate the profound influence Moncton’s Roland Gauvin has had on the music scene in the Atlantic region as well as on an international scale. This author-composer-performer is a founding member and driving force behind three of New Brunswick premier musical groups: Roland & Johnny, Les Méchants Maquereaux and the legendary 1755.

In the 1970s, an era marked by political and cultural change, 1755 broke through barriers separating the ‘two solitudes’ in New Brunswick. The ‘Beatles of Acadia’, with their unique blend of traditional roots music and rock, gave Acadians a band to call their own. At the time, they introduced their many young Anglophone fans to Acadian culture.

Roland Gauvin absorbed the music of Acadia at his grandfather’s knee, who shared with the young boy his love for the traditional songs of his heritage. The lessons of childhood have never left Gauvin; he has devoted a great deal of time serving as an ambassador for the province and for Canada at cultural events across the country and around the world. He has created special programs for young audiences, taking his unique entertaining and educational act on the road to schools throughout Atlantic Canada, Ontario, Western Canada and France.

Besides working with and as a mentor for a variety of young artists in his home province Roland is now enjoying a successful solo career. In the year 2000 he is awarded simultaneously the Prix Hommage Éloize and Étoile at the Gala du Millénaire. In 2007 he is awarded the André Thadée Bourque and Louise Manny Award for Excellence in Music by the province of New Brunswick and the Order of Canada for his contribution and devotion in the promotion of Acadian culture and music around the world. Finally he and his fellow band mates of the group 1755 received the prestigious Dr Helen Creighton Lifetime Achievement Award for their musical contribution at the East Coast Music Award in February of 2008.

Charisma is defined as the ability to inspire enthusiasm, interest or affection in others, Roland Gauvin possesses a vast amount of this very quality. He gives of himself generously, in order to preserve the Acadian heritage that run so deep within his musical soul.

Suggested Activities

The Acadian songwriter and singer, Roland Gauvin, will be introduced to the students through the biography provided.

Prior to playing the song, write the title l'escaouette. Encourage the children to listen to the genre in the song to compare and contrast the music they currently listen to.

Students will listen to the song and share their response – verbally, in writing, and/or through an illustration.

L'escaouette – Ask the children what they think this word means. Give them the definition of the word which is a wedding celebration and feast.

Have the children listen to the song again and try to identify the instruments that are played in the song. (For your information, the percussion you hear are the fiddler’s feet. The instruments are guitar, violin, and bass guitar.)

The words to the song provided below can be placed on an overhead. Play the song and have the children sing along. Once the children are comfortable with the words invite them to sing with the accompaniment version.

The song L'escaouette

DIRECTIONS: After carefully viewing the picture I have shown you, please take a few moments to reflect on the following questions and write your responses. While there are no right or wrong answers, I do ask that you take your time and put lots of thought into your responses. When you have done your best to respond to each question, please turn your paper upside down on your desk, take out your anchor activity, work quietly and peacefully at it, to allow others time to finish their reflections.

Cross-Curricular Links: Language Arts:

GC0 3 Students will be able to interact with sensitivity and respect considering the situation and purpose.
GC0 8 Students will be expected to use writing and other forms of representation to explore, clarify, and reflect on their thoughts, feelings, experiences and learning; and to us their imaginations.

Students will be expected to:

- Gain insight into the art of Acadian fishing culture.
- Obtain Interview Skills.
- Know types of fish from NB waters.

Suggested Activity:

Introduce “La Premiere Peche” by musician Art Richard to connect with the Acadian culture and fishing industry.

Suggestions for Learning and Teaching (Procedure)

Prior to playing the song, encourage the children to listen for instruments or words they may recognize. Have them listen to what they think the singer is trying to convey. The singer, composer Art Richard can be viewed on the Portal entertaining a grade 3 classroom at https://portal.nbed.nb.ca/tr/lr/eflr/Pages/,DanaInfo=portal.nbed.nb.ca,SSL+GradeThree.aspx
The students will listen to song and share their ideas of what the song might convey. I.e. Is this a happy song?

Have the students share the names of the instruments they recognized. The teacher would then explain the intention of the song.

The life of a fisherman on the Acadian coast would be explored through discussion.

Students could work on gathering information on the following topics:
- The types of fish and seafood in NB.
- Preservation of fish i.e: salted cod and smoked herring.”
- “Boucaniere” – Smoke Houses in Cap Pele
- Equipment necessary for fisherman such as boats, lobster traps
- Various types of lobster traps and their purpose
- Acadians living near the ocean for their livelihood i.e fishing

Interview:
The Interview process from Take Action P. 38 & 39 would be reviewed with the students.
The students would view the Video from the Portal https://portal.nbed.nb.ca/tr/lr/eflr/Pages/,DanaInfo=portal.nbed.nb.ca,SSL+GradeThree.aspx of an Acadian fisherman.
After the video, the teacher would ask what steps they recognized from the Interview process.

Class discussion would follow the interview with the fisherman.

Various enrichment projects could develop from this unit.

French Language and Culture Activities: Grade Three

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Focus Area(s)</th>
<th>Suggested Facilitator</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Social Studies: French Cultural Fair</td>
<td>Classroom Teacher/Students</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Curriculum Outcome(s): Social Studies Grade Three

Students will be expected to:

- Illustrate how the peoples living in their province contribute to its cultural diversity
- Take age-appropriate actions to promote positive interactions among people

Cross-Curricular Links: Language Arts

Students will be expected to:

- be able to communicate information and ideas effectively and clearly, and to respond personally and critically.
- engage in and respond to a variety of oral presentations and other texts
- select, read and view with understanding a range of literature, information, media, and visual texts
- make connections between what they read and their own experiences and knowledge

Suggested Activity:

Teacher(s) and students design a cultural fair to promote French culture. This could be within the classroom, or could link with the entire school. Activities would be differentiated to accommodate student abilities, strengths, and individual talents. The activities should, whenever possible, be aimed at accessing higher level critical thinking skills and utilizing the upper end of cognition outlined in Bloom’s Taxonomy. The research and planning are the main thrust of this activity and should be led and organized by students. See this link for suggested activities that align with Bloom’s Taxonomy http://mysciencelessons.files.wordpress.com/2009/07/bloomwheel3.gif
Prior to working on the content of the fair, organizational and meeting skills would be taught in a series of mini-lessons contained in Take Action-Make a Difference: A social studies handbook. Following these lessons, a committee would be selected to organize and run the cultural fair. This is an opportunity for student enrichment.

Procedure:

Lesson One: What is a team? What do we think we know about teams?

Have students brainstorm and the teacher/student leader can record on a KWL chart under the K column. To help generate student responses the teacher may direct the following questions:

1. What is the purpose of a team?
2. How do teams work?
3. What teams do you belong to?
4. Read story Teamwork can work wonders
   http://topmoralstories.blogspot.com/2008/05/team-work-can-work-wonders.html (or similar stories-There are many out there)

5. Follow with questions such as:
   a. What is the author trying to tell us?
   b. What have we learned about teamwork?
   c. What would have happened if they had not worked in a team?

   Revisit the KWL chart after the reading and record additional knowledge responses.

Lesson Two: Guidelines for Developing an Effective team (page 37 in Take Action, Make a Difference).

1. Discuss strategies that promote successful teamwork as outlined on page 37 of the book. Teacher could write these strategies on chart paper and discuss/explain to students what each strategy means.
2. Post strategies around the classroom.

Following these lessons, the teacher may select a student organizational committee which will have responsibility for organizing the fair in addition to their cultural contribution within another group. This may span across grade levels, inviting students participating in immersion and intensive French.

Exploration into these different areas may take place at any time of the school year. Students have engaged in many learning experiences from Kindergarten through Grade Two which offer several suggestions for this kind of activity. It is strongly encouraged that other grades be involved as all students are engaged in some aspect of the exploration and celebration of French language and culture.
Learning Experiences to Introduce French Language and Culture – Grade Three

The cultural fair could include, but would not be limited to, the following French cultural activities:

1. Music
2. Dance
3. Arts and Culture
4. Food
5. Dramatic Productions
6. Multimedia presentations (Notebook Software Presentation, How to pg. 32-33 Take Action)
7. Presentations or summaries of interviews with francophone members of the community (How to pp.38-39-Take Action)
8. Static cultural displays (such as you would see in a heritage fair)

In addition to the meetings to organize, other students may be involved in other supplemental activities including the creation of:

1. Brochures promoting the event.(how to pp.42/43-Take Action)
2. Posters promoting the event.
3. Public Service Announcements/Voice Mails/E-mails (How to pp 30/31 Take Action)

*Please note: This fair is intended to engage all students of all abilities. The variety of ways to be involved allows for respecting the diverse composition of classrooms.

Lesson 3:

See p.35 Take Action-Why Evaluate your Actions? Discuss and add additional responses to the “learned” column of the KWL Chart.

Following the Cultural Fair, there would be a lesson reflecting upon the process and activity as a whole. Something of the things that might be considered would be:

- How well did we work together as a team?
- What problems did our group face?
- How well did we solve these problems?
- What could we do differently next time?

Curriculum Outcome(s): Social Studies

- Locate their province in the Atlantic region, Canada, North America, and the World.

Procedure: “Follow That Map!” Mini-lessons

Lesson 1: Follow That Map (Introduction to Mapping Unit)

Materials: “Follow That Map” by Scot Ritchie, chart paper, markers

Mini-lesson: Gather the class in a group setting (i.e. story corner). Introduce the text to the students. Examine the cover of the book and ask what they notice. “What do you think this book will be about?” Ask them to start thinking about maps. “Why do people use maps? Think of some times that a map would be very important. Have you ever used a map? Where have you seen maps?”

Activity: Tell the children you will be starting to learn all about maps. Divide the class into pairs or small groups. Give each group markers and a large sheet of paper. Divide the paper into two columns – “I Know” and “I wonder”. Have students work in their small groups to list everything they know about maps and some areas for investigation. Circulate among the groups and be liberal with praise for those engaged in the activity. “Wow, I see you remembered to include…”

Reassemble in teaching area. Have students present their lists and assemble a class KWL chart. Post the chart and explain that you will use it in your study of maps.

Lesson 2: First Stop (Introducing Symbols and Legends)

Materials: “Follow That Map” by Scot Ritchie, index cards, markers, KWL Chart

Minilesson: Begin by referring to the KWL chart the children have created and review some of the items listed. Take a picture walk through the book “Follow that Map!” Note that the book has a table of contents and an index. “Why do you think they are included in the book? What could you use the table of contents for? When would you use the index?” Begin to read the book. After reading pages 4 and 5, explain that there are lots of concepts presented on these pages. Check with the KWL chart. Discuss whether some of the concepts should be added to the “I Wonder” column.

Read to the end of page 9. Look at the map together and carefully examine the symbols. “Why do you think the author chose a swing to represent the park or a stack of books for the library?” Find the symbols on the map and in the legend.
“What do you think would be a good symbol for a school, a toy store, etc.?” “Why do you think symbols usually don’t have any words on them?” Encourage children to really think about this question. “Symbol” and “legend” may be new words for the students and could be posted on the wall for easy reference.

Activity: The activity will be to design some symbols for a map of the classroom. Divide the students into pairs and give each group several index card size papers. Have each group design symbols for areas or objects in the classroom. (reading area, teacher’s desk, coats…) Conclude by updating the KWL chart.
Extension: Have groups create large classroom maps on chart paper. Incorporate their legends into their map design.

Lesson 3: Follow that Trail… (Introducing Routes)

Materials: “Follow That Map” by Scot Ritchie, New Brunswick Tourism Maps, markers, KWL Chart

Minilesson: Read pages 10 and 11. Trace the route the children follow in the book. Note how it is marked with arrows. Route may be a new word for the students and could be displayed on the wall.

Activity: Distribute the tourist maps of New Brunswick. Give the children a few minutes to spread out and look over the maps. Have each child put their name on their personal map as they will use it frequently during the unit.

Follow this link http://www.tourismnewbrunswick.ca to access Tourism New Brunswick and a copy of the map for the smart board use. Click on Destinations and select Parks. In the right hand corner, you will find a map of New Brunswick. Enlarge to full screen. On this map, you can highlight routes, festivals, accommodations, etc.

Start by examining the legend and discuss the symbols used on this map. Look at the section about highway signs. Once again ask why symbols are used on highway signs. Direct the children’s attention to the explanations of the legend symbols. “What do they notice about the writing? Why do they think it is given in French and English?”

Find the symbols for roads. Discuss why each one has a number on it? Have the children look on the map and see if they can find any roads and trace them with their fingers. Find the key for the designated routes in NB (Scenic Drive Gateways). “Why do you think these roads are marked with colour?” Together, begin to trace routes throughout the province. “Put your finger on the capital city of Fredericton. Trace the purple route or road to the City of Miramichi. Draw some arrows along the route. Find the name of this route. Next, we are going to find the Acadian Coastal Route. Start at the south point of the route and follow it north. Mark the Acadian Coastal Route with arrows.” Ask the children what they notice about the place names along the Acadian Coast and have them theorize why the majority of names are French.

Reassemble the class in the learning area. Review the concepts covered today and add to the KWL chart.

Lesson 4: In the City (Introducing the Compass Rose)
Learning Experiences to Introduce French Language and Culture – Grade Three

Minilesson: Assemble the class in the learning area. Read pages 12 -13. Ask the students to tell you some things that they know from looking at this map. Be sure to refer to the legend and discuss why each symbol was chosen by the author. Review the term “route” and have the students trace the highway through the map.

Draw attention to the compass rose. “Why is this included on the map? What do the letters stand for? Can you think of times a compass rose would be useful?” Invite children to use the compass rose to help them interpret the map. Ask questions such as “What would I find if I travelled to the east part of this city? In what part of the city would I find the airport?”

Activity: Distribute the maps of NB. Demonstrate on the smart board or posted map and have children draw a compass rose on their NB map. For grade three teaching purposes, it is acceptable to have students draw the compass rose with north pointing directly to the top of the map.

“Now you can use your compass rose to help give accurate directions. Let’s see if you can solve these problems.” Pose direction questions such as – “What city do you find when you are in the north part of New Brunswick? What city do you find in southern NB? What province is east of NB? What province is north of NB?” (If the children are having difficulty with the concept of the compass rose, tape a small copy on each student’s desk and use the cardinal directions as much as possible when giving instructions to the class.)

Reassemble in the teaching area and add the new concept of a compass rose and cardinal directions to the KWL chart.

Lesson 5: Off to the Country (Introducing Scale)

Materials: “Follow That Map” by Scot Ritchie, index cards, markers, KWL Chart, New Brunswick Tourism Maps

Minilesson: Review the concept that globes and/or maps are representations of real places but reduced in size. You could start with the example of the classroom map. “If I wanted to make a map of the classroom, would I need to get a giant sheet of paper as big as the class? What would I do?”

Read pages 14 – 15 – “Follow that Map”. Ask the children to use what they already know about maps to tell you some facts about this map. Be sure to touch on legends, symbols, routes and the compass rose. Move the discussion toward an understanding of scale. Begin with simple nearest and farthest comparison questions “Can you show me which child is nearest to the sail boat? How do you know?” Which child is farthest from the forest? How do you know?”

Tell the children that this map will also help estimate how far away something is. Ask for ideas on how this is done. Using an index card, model how to copy the scale in the book. Move the card along the map to calculate approximate or estimated distances. Pose the question – “Suppose I don’t need the whole card to reach my destination?” Finish by asking why scales would be useful to include on maps.
Activity: Distribute NB Tourism maps. Find the scale on the map and model for the children how they can copy the 0–50 km scale on their index card. Model calculating a distance using multiples of 50. Find the estimated distance from Fredericton to the Miramichi together. “Can you find out about how long the Acadian Coastal Trail is?”

Reassemble the group and add new information to the KWL chart.

Lesson 6: Mapping Adventure

Minilesson: Show students a copy of “Follow That Map” and enthusiastically state that you have learned many new things about maps. Refer to the KWL and update it with any additional information the students volunteer. Explain that now they will use their mapping skills to go on a mapping adventure. During the map activity they will be learning about the Acadian people in New Brunswick.

Activity: Armed with their highlighters, markers and New Brunswick maps, students will proceed through the instruction sheet. Make information pamphlets available to the children. Explain that they will have to explore the selection of pamphlets, study them and decide where they would like a family from Louisiana to visit. Reassure the children that they are not expected to understand all the vocabulary on the pamphlets, but they can look for place names and find them on the map. This activity could also be set up as an independent center. Have children work to the bottom of page 2 of the “Let’s Explore New Brunswick” activity sheet.

Supporting additional information to help students visualize and understand the pamphlets:

This supporting information can be used as background for both teachers and students.

Tintamarre Cross-grade connection to Kindergarten “You and Your World”.

“An ancient Acadian tradition … Literally translated, “tintamarre” means “loud racket.” Every year on the 15th of August (the Acadian national holiday) at 6:00 pm, some 25,000 people march down a closed-off segment of Saint-Pierre Boulevard in Caraquet, making as much noise as possible with anything they can get their hands on: pots, pans, shakers, drums, tin cans, whistles, etc. The sheer spirit, the raw energy and the wild enthusiasm of this sea of people made-up in Acadian colours and waving Acadian flags is simply impossible to top. Come be a part of the joyful celebrations and bring on the noise!”

Festival Acadien de Caraquet web site: http://www.festivalacadien.ca/contenu.cfm?id=108

An excerpt from a 2008 online article in “The Star Phoenix” by Peter Wilson:
Crammed into the crowd, I hadn’t noticed the youngster atop his dad’s shoulders, until he let go with a blast on his plastic trumpet.

Three inches away from this noise-maker, my right ear took the full brunt of the boy’s energy. He smiled broadly, let me have another blast and waved a small red, white and blue flag with his free hand.

I’m here to celebrate Acadian power, joining a force field of noise supplied by about 10,000 people blowing, banging, ringing and drumming their way into the record books.

Creating noise is the name of the game during Tintamarre festivities celebrated in communities along New Brunswick’s Acadian Peninsula

Every August, communities along New Brunswick’s east coast Acadian Coastal Route get together in a two-week celebration of their culture. They have picnics, attend concerts and art shows. There are family parties and events which climax in this hour-long pandemonium they call Tintamarre (pronounced tantamar.)

The vibrant racket has its roots in Canada’s early days, when victorious British forces deported about 10,000 Acadians – some to Europe, others to Louisiana. The British and New England militia who organized the 1755 deportation could well be rolling in their graves, because at Tintamarre there’s enough noise to wake the dead.

Designed to tell the rest of the world that Acadians are very much alive and well, the celebration of noise occurs in a number of towns and villages. However, the largest and noisiest festival of sound is in Caraquet, a pretty fishing town on the north shore.

The event is very much a family affair with gatherings of Acadian clans from far and wide, including Cajun cousins from Louisiana. Other Acadian expats flee the wealth of Alberta’s oil patch and the big city life of Montreal and Toronto to get back to their New Brunswick home turf in time for the holiday.

“At Fort Beausejour National Historic Site, you will step back in time to an era when England and France were caught up in a tug-of-war for supremacy in Acadia. … [The Fort] was built by the French in 1751 to defend their interests in the region and to counterbalance the construction of the British Fort Lawrence built a year previously in the area. After four years of an uneasy stalemate, the Fort fell to British and colonial forces … in June 1755. It played a role in the Deportation of the Acadians in the late 1750s and early 1760s. The Fort was renamed Fort Cumberland after it was captured by the British in 1755.”

“In June 1755, the Acadian population had still not sworn unconditional allegiance to the British Crown, so Nova Scotia Lieutenant Governor Charles Lawrence, fearing that the Acadians might take up arms, deployed an expedition to capture the Fort Beauséjour. … Fort Beauséjour was defeated by the British expedition … and this marked the end of the Acadian presence in Nova Scotia, because it initiated the plan to expel the French neutrals from the province.”

Lesson 7: Mapping Adventure – Creating a Postcard

Materials: Information pamphlets and postcards, large index cards, official map of New Brunswick, Supplies for creating postcard pictures, which might include markers, pencil crayons, paint, crayons, or pictures from tourist guides for producing collages.

Minilesson: Introduce the postcards and discuss their format. Ask students to relate any past experiences with postcards. “What are these picture showing? Why do you think these pictures were selected? If you were going to make a postcard from our school, what picture would you draw? If you were making a postcard from New Brunswick, what would you draw on it?"
Have the children think about the location they have chosen to have the family from Louisiana visit. “What might be on a postcard from this location?” Brainstorm some ideas together. Point out that the card must be attractive and show something true about the location. Tell the students that you will be looking at their pictures for evidence that they have studied the pamphlets. Encourage additional research into these locations.

Activity: Present the following challenge. Ask students use their imagination and pretend that they are visiting the Grand Tintamarre in Caraquet or Fort Beausejour. Students will create their postcard image on the large index card. This is a great cross-curricular activity. The illustrations can take the form of drawings, paintings or collages. Old tourist guides make great resource material for collages.

| Imagine you are at either Fort Beausejour or Le Grand Tintamarre. Use a large index card, create a postcard for the family to send back to Louisiana. Make sure your picture tells what you would see at these sites. |

Conclude the lessons by having students share their art work and explain why they chose this representation of the location.

Lesson 8: Writing the Postcard

Materials: Information pamphlets and postcards, large index cards, official map of New Brunswick

Minilesson: Examine the postcard samples and show where the address is located. “There is not much room for writing, so people writing postcards have short messages.” Tell students that because their postcard will not be getting mailed, they can use the entire space for writing. Model a succinct message, pretending you are writing from “Le Pays De La Sagouine” to your family home in Louisiana.

Show the pamphlet from Le Pays de la Sagouine and look through it together. “What might I see if I was visiting.” List their suggestions. Wonder aloud what you could include in your postcard and how you will describe it. Model the postcard writing.

Activity: Students will pretend they are a member of the family from Louisiana and visiting the location pictured on their postcard. You may want to have students do a draft copy, before they transfer the writing to the postcard.

| Now, let’s take this challenge one step further. Pretend you are a member of the family visiting from Louisiana. Write a note on the back of your postcard telling what you see and hear on your adventure. |
Conclude the lesson by inviting the students to share their writing.

Extension: Persuasive writing - Write a letter to parents convincing them to take their family on a trip along the Acadian Coast.

Investigate other landmark sites along the Acadian Coastal Route and create media advertisements which could be in the form of posters, brochures, videos, radio spots, etc.

Stage a tintamarre within the school. Create Acadian flags and noisemakers before the celebration begins!
Let’s Explore New Brunswick

There is also a replica of an Acadian house at the Historic Gardens in Annapolis Royal, Nova Scotia, which is mentioned in the book http://www.acadian-home.org
These and other resources could be used to assemble a collection of photos re-telling the story in pictures or illustrating what life was like for the early Acadians using SMART software, Photostory or Powerpoint.
Claire’s Gift

Please note that this is a suggested process for leading a read aloud of Claire’s Gift with your class. Teachers are encouraged to use this or develop their own process for working with this story in their classrooms.

Before Reading
Making predictions:
• Look at the title and picture on the front:

What do you think this story might be about? What clues make you believe this?
• Read the summary on the back. Invite students to make suggestions as to why they believe the four lines at the top may be in italics. (This is a repeated chant/story pattern heard throughout the story)

• The name of the place mentioned is Cape Breton Island.

Have any of you been to Cape Breton? What can you share with the class?
• The author’s name is Maxine Trottier.

When you hear this name, what does it make you think of? (Students may pick up that it is a French name)

During Reading
Pages 1-3
Key vocabulary to highlight: Cheticamp, delicate, twining,
Translations:
ma tante = my aunt
Bonjour ma tante = Hello, my aunt
Bonne nuit, ma tante : Goodnight, my aunt
• Highlight the name of the character Tante Marie (aunt Marie) (students may notice the name is of French heritage)

Collaborative sharing:
• Draw attention to the illustration of the rug being hooked on page one. What background knowledge, if any, do students have of rug hooking?

Please note the video of a local artisan practicing rug hooking with students at the Grade 3 level.

• Note that this is a popular activity that many enjoy, including those of French heritage. On pages 2-3, invite students to notice what are some of the potential activities/livelihoods identified in Cheticamp? (fiddling/music, dance, boats for fishing?)

Provide time for students to think, pair, and share their thinking about the story. Have the pairs join another pair and share what they are thinking about the book so far.
Opportunities for enrichment:
Listen to a traditional Acadian reel, on the provided CD: XXXXXXXXXX
View a traditional French folk dance, La Bastringue, on the French Language and Culture portal site at https://portal.nbed.nb.ca/tr/lr/eflr/Pages/LearnExprGrOne.aspx
   Try the dance with your class. Highlight the music in the background- what instrument is this? Discuss fiddle music as a strong element of French culture.
Find more information about Cheticamp through the cultural heritage page at http://www.cheticampns.com/CultureE.html
Listen to the local Cheticamp radio station at http://www.ckjm.ca/francais/home/index.cfm?id=73

Pages 4-7
Key vocabulary to highlight: mantel (How might the context in the sentence help students determine the meaning?)
Translation:
Pauvre petite: poor little thing

Draw attention to the illustrations, particularly on pages 6-7.
Notice the picture on the mantel on page 5- who might this be?
What details in the illustration help you to understand more about the livelihood of Cheticamp at this time?
Can you tell when this story may have taken place? What evidence do you have to support your thinking?
The author shares how the community is anticipating Claire’s visit, how do you think Claire is feeling about this?
How do the pictures of Claire on pages 9 and 10 tell us more about Claire?
Draw students’ attention to the depiction of women on pages 10-11. What observations might they make?
What questions would you ask at this point in the story?
Invite students to discuss what has happened so far in the story.

Pages 14-18
Key vocabulary to highlight: gulf, soothed
Invite students to join in the refrain:

With the hook, catch the wool
Give it just a little pull
Give the wool a little tug
With the hook to make the rug

Why do you think Tante Marie says this refrain?
Why do you think the author writes “…there in the doorway stood Claire in a nightgown that was a little too worn.” What more does this tell us about Claire?
Discuss the transition occurring with Claire- note the pictures on page 17 and 19- how may they be compared to pages 9, 10, and 13?

Pages 20-23
Key vocabulary to highlight: surface, parlour, dignified
Translation:
Bonjour, Claire et ma tante: Hello Claire and my aunt
Discuss the characters’ perspectives on the hooked rug? Why did the author include this section?

Translation:
Ma petite: My little one
Ma tante: My aunt
Parfait: Perfect
Bon voyage, Claire: Have a good trip, Claire.
Au revoir ma tante: Goodbye my aunt
What interesting information is revealed in the letter on page 24? What further clues indicate the time period of this book?

Pages 28-30
Key vocabulary to highlight: twining, honour
Before revealing the rug on page 30, read the author’s description and invite students to visualize the rug. Can they draw/produce their own design.

Follow up Discussions:

- Read the recipe for chicken fricot, available on-line at http://www.gnb.ca/0000/fsl/meals-e.asp
- Fricot is French for a special kind of stew or hearty soup made from a mixture of meat and potatoes, cooked in broth. You’d be sure to find chicken fricot at an annual "Festival Acadian de Caraquet" where the persistence and strength of the Acadian people is celebrated. Here you would experience traditional folk music, crafts, costumes and old-fashioned Acadian dishes. Discover the unique taste of Acadian cuisine for yourself and this delicious recipe for chicken fricot, New Brunswick style.

3-4 lbs utility chicken, quartered 4 tbsp. butter
1 1/2 tbsp salt  Pepper to taste
1 large onion, cubed 4 tsps. savory
3 cups potatoes, diced 3 cups carrots, diced
6 cups water, to cover

1. In a large saucepan, fry chicken pieces in butter, over medium heat, for 30 mins. Add salt and pepper. Meanwhile, prepare vegetables.
2. Add onions and continue to cook for 10 mins.
3. Add boiling water and savory and simmer for 20 mins or until chicken is tender.
4. Remove chicken pieces from pot and allow to cool.
5. Bring stock to a boil and add vegetables; reduce heat and simmer for 20 mins. Meanwhile, remove chicken meat from bones. Thats what I would use.
6. Add chicken meat and vegetables and stock and simmer 20 mins or longer

Preparation Time: 15 mins | Cooking Time: 1 1/2 hours | 6-8 servings.

Critical Literacy:
Critical literacy teaches children to begin to make intelligent, considered, humane decisions about how they choose to accept, resist, or adapt understandings they have unravelled.
(English Language Arts curriculum document, Grades K-3)
Engaging students in a model of questioning the writer’s intent, purpose and biases is an integral form of critical literacy.
Ask students the following question: Why do you think the author wrote this book?

Curriculum Outcome(s): English Language Arts

Students will be expected to:

- with assistance, interact with a variety of simple texts (e.g., pictures, computer software, videotapes, non-fiction) as well as human and community resources
- engage in simple oral presentations and respond to oral presentations

Cross-Curricular link(s): You and Your World

Students will be expected to:

- demonstrate an understanding of the importance of showing respect for others’ traditions, rituals, and celebrations

Suggested Activity: Hello Friends! Bonjour Mes Amis!

Kindergarten students from Anglophone classes will exchange simple Photostories with Kindergarten students from Francophone classes (or Immersion/IF classes). The content of the Photostory may be designed by the teachers involved in the exchange, however, one suggested description is included below.

Procedure:

Teachers will take digital photos of each student and record each saying his/her name in his/her first language: “Hello, my name is…” and “Bonjour, je m’appelle…” This will provide initial introductions of classes to each other.

Students in each class will point out areas of interest in their classroom, (e.g., “This is our read-aloud corner. Our teacher reads books to us here.”) Students will use many visual prompts and props to support the words they are using.
Collaborating teachers will agree on a time to share their Photostories over the internet.

Digital photostories may be saved and added to the French language interest centre. Teachers may also choose to upload the videos to the portal site to share with those schools not participating in the project. Note: This will require permission slips from parents/guardians.

The number and content of exchanges may be determined by the partnering classes throughout the year. Suggested topics may include: “What we like to do at our school,” “Our Trip to King’s Landing,” “Having our Thanksgiving Dinner in the Cafeteria,” etc.

Dear Parents/Guardians:

Recently we have begun a new program to introduce children to French Language and Culture at the Kindergarten to Grade 3 level. The program will include French music, French dances, French children’s books and guest speakers, to name but a few sources.

We would like to invite the community to support us in this learning. Perhaps you or someone you know is of French heritage and would like to come to our school to lead an activity with students. Some activities may include: reading a simple story in French, sharing or playing favorite French music, or just discussing customs and cultural activities. The possibilities are endless!

If you or your contact is able to help us with this initiative, please complete the form below and return it to the school.

Thanking you in advance,

(teacher’s name)
