7.0 GUIDELINES / RECOMMENDATIONS

There are a number of different circumstances that may be considered to be “exceptional circumstances” for the purposes of section 6.0. These might include circumstances where more than one school is located in the same building or on an adjoining piece of land; where schools have very small enrolments; or where one of the schools is slated for closure in the short term. Situations in which a principal is assigned responsibility for more than one school should be few in number, and superintendents should be prudent in making such appointments.
