

Canadian Firearms Safety Course

As a result of new federal legislation which came into effect June 18, 2015, the Department of Natural Resources can no longer offer the home-study option, or provide the opportunity for individuals to challenge the Canadian Firearms Safety Course (Part A) as a means of obtaining proper firearms licencing and hunter certification in New Brunswick. In order for persons to successfully complete the Canadian Firearms Safety Course (Part A), they must register for a classroom course through their nearest DNR District Office. The home-study option for the Atlantic Provinces Hunter Education Course (Part B) is still being offered.
