

Crown Reserve Camps

- Camps are available to Crown Reserve anglers on 24 of 40 Crown Reserve stretches. Their use, except for the Patapedia stretches, is included with the purchase of a Crown Reserve angling licence.

- Crown Reserve camps include basic amenities such as a stove, table, chairs, etc. Crown Reserve anglers are responsible for all other incidentals such as firewood, food, and drinking water.
- Angling parties are responsible for removing their garbage following camp use. Littering regulations are strictly enforced.
- Purchase of a Crown Reserve angling licence does not guarantee exclusive use of its camp. For example, Crown Reserve bookings made under “Step C” within 48 hours of the angling date may be done by more than one angling party. Also, on the Jardine Brook and Lower Kedgwick Daily Crown Reserve stretches, a camp can be booked by more than one angling party. Crown Reserve anglers should check with the appropriate designated ERD office when making a Crown Reserve booking that might involve camp sharing so that, if necessary, they can choose to make alternate accommodation arrangements.
- Crown Reserve stretches without a camp may feature camping facilities such as a tenting area, picnic table, etc. Refer to the “Stretch Description” documents available from the ERD web site for further information about the camp or camping facilities associated with each Crown Reserve stretch.
